Our Leadership

Doug Devlin,
CEO

Doug provides the strategic direction and oversight to the organization.

His background as a CFO, knowledge of PEOs, AHPs and large employers, combined with his early software development background plays a key role in establishing Tabulera's go to market strategy and product market fit.

Janaki Guduru,
CTO

Janaki has been responsible for the technical direction and development of Tabulera's product and the infrastructure behind it.

His innovative approach to problem solving has been adopted by the product development, engineering and quality assurance teams he manages. He has significant strategy and product development experience from his background in the HR Outsourcing industry.

Josh Beckett
VP of Operations

Josh's background and diverse experience with insurance carriers and benefit outsourcers on a variety of metric driven operational and client facing roles enables him to help change systems and processes for the better. Clients and his internal teams recognize his sense of organization and a positive can-do attitude.

Tony Zuanich,
VP of Sales

Tony brings 20 years of software and services sales leadership in human capital management solutions

Anne Sorensen,
Director of Implementation

Anne brings extensive background and knowledge in Benefits, Human Resources, Implementation and Customer Management.

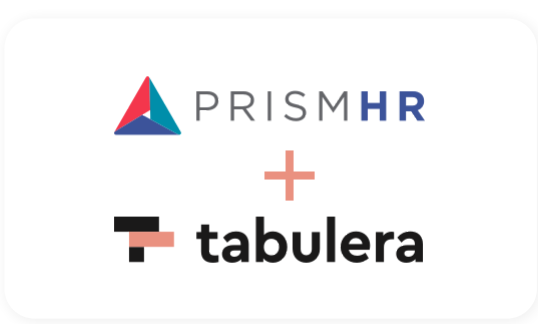

Her understanding of processes and procedures, coupled with her positive energy, allow her to develop powerful project plans and lead customers, brokers and carriers to successfully meet their goals.
